Olga Boczar

Olga Boczar – vocalist, songwriter, associate professor.

The Fryderyki award-nominated artist with a unique voice and original style, Olga blends jazz, poetry, and folk influences. Her latest album “Oddycham” (2023), featuring lyrics by Julian Tuwim, was praised as one of the most beautifully sung jazz records in Poland in recent years.

She has released three original albums so far and has performed over 300 concerts across Poland and Europe, collaborating with top musicians and appearing on prestigious stages, at festivals, and on radio and TV broadcasts.

Her original works have been played in countries including the USA, UK, Australia, France, and Germany. She is also a long-time lecturer at the Fryderyk Chopin University of Music in Warsaw and the University of Rzeszów.

Recital description

A deeply emotional and intimate concert experience, “Oddycham” is a unique blend of jazz, improvisation, and elements of Polish folk, creating a distinctive and original sound. It is a musical journey through beautiful Slavic melodies, jazz harmony, and poetry.

Featuring original compositions with lyrics by Julian Tuwim, Olga Boczar invites the audience into a contemplative soundscape, where breath becomes music and music becomes breath.

Delicate, soulful, and honest – this recital explores themes of presence, longing, and inner freedom. It is a feast for the senses, transporting listeners into a world of refined sounds and lyrical reflection.
